President.

HO ! FOR ROCKVILLE ! An adjourned meeting of the Northern Liber ties Scott Club will be held this (Friday) evening, at 71 o'clock, at their headquarters, (Dorsey' Hotel,) for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements for attending the Whig rally in Rockville to-morrow, and the transaction of other important business.

Every member is requested to be present at

N. D. LARNER. Secretary.

REMEMBER that every vote is important! Let no Whig remain away from the ballot-box on Tuesday next!

Whigs of Washington, see to it that no man among you, who has a right to vote in any State of the Union, fails to repair to his home to perform that duty.

The Hour Approaches.

The near approach of a great battle between armies is usually marked by a still and solemn pause. All preparation has been made. The ground has been chosen. The plan has been arranged. On either side there is watchfulness, caution, prudence, and an almost painful appreciation of the dread responsibilities to be encountered.

A conflict is now before us-close at hand. It is to be a bloodless contest, though more important than many that have crimsoned fields with blood, and sacrificed tens of thousands of human lives. It is to decide the policy of our government in a critical period of time, and to decide the verdict of the American people upon an important issue. It is to determine whether party managers, for merely party ends, are to be the rulers of our country, or the people themselves are to declare their sovereign will, and without dictation or control, to choose their constitutional ruler. May wisdom, charity, fairness and moderation, pervade every community throughout our land; and may order and submission to the popular will characterize the conduct of the vanquished. We look to the result without fear We believe that ere a nemination had been made the people of this country had determined upon the election of Winfield Scott. We await the day in il a m hope of triumph; yet with a courage that could dare to stand proudly erect in the darkest hour of unavoidable defeat. Let the contest

Rockville To-morrow.

Through some unforgivable oversight the name of Mr. CARRINGTON, of Virginia, one of the ablest st enthusiastic advocates of our can has not had its place in the published programme. He will be there, however, and our Maryland friends will rejoice in his eloquent appeals.

In the reports of the recent spirited meeting at Bladensburg, the name of Major James M. Mc-RAE was also omitted, though his effort on that occasion was apt, apprepriate, eloquent and highly effective.

The Sympathetic Union.

The Richmond Whig discourseth as follows: The seven wise men of the Washington Union have, just at this time, many sources of grief. They are deeply distressed lest the Whigs should not pay fitting honors to the memory of Daniel Webster. The fact is, the Union, Enquirer & Co., do weep almost enough for themselves and the Whigs too. And then, the Union is dreadfully alarmed for the Whig party. It thinks the election of Pierce-which it thinks settled-will demoralize, disband and extinguish the Whig party. Whereupon the Union sheds a great many superfluous tears. It may dismiss its fears. A New Hampshire Yankee of Pierce's calibre will be much more apt to extinguish his own party than that opposed to him. No such man could hold power in this country longer than four years. The general rebellion against Van Buren would be outstripped by the universal uprising against "fainting Frank." But that which imparts the keenest pang to the sensitive bosom of the Union, is the honor of Mr. Fillmore. His desiring the election of Gen. Scott, and "his utter humiliation at the feet of his successful rival, presents a most mortifying exhibit"-and the sorrowful Union sheds an ocean of tears over the lost honor of the President! Did it never occur to the clear heads of the seven wise men, that their tears would be more appropriately bestowed on Cass, Buchanan, Marcy and other veteran Democrats, who were superseded by an insignificant and obscure Yankes, and who have had so little sense of the disgrace put upon them as to pull off their coats in support of their contemptible rival? Was there no want of dignity, of self-respect, of honor, there-er are Democrats supposed to be devoid of such sentiments?

THE CANVASS IN ORIO .- We find in the Ohio Whig papers an eloquent address from the Whig Central Committee at Columbus to the Whigs of the State. It reviews the results of the recent elections in Ohio, and is full of the strongest encouragement to the Whig party. It shows beyond all controversy that the friends of General Scott have the power to carry the State on the 2d of November, and nobly exhorts them to do their duty. They are at this moment obeying the exhortation. They are doing the work before them with a will that no obstacles can resists.

Look out for spurious ticksts.

Mr. Webster's Letter.

In reply to a correspondent signing himself "Aliquis," the New York Commercial Advertiser says:

"Mr. Webster's memory is free from what 'Aliquis' calls a stain upon his political career. A letter was written by Mr. Webster, acknowledging the binding character of the nomination by the Whig Convention at Baltimore, and with-drawing all opposition to it on his part. It was written by himself, and given to a gentleman to copy; and he would have signed it, and sent it to the New York gentlemen who wrote to him on New York gentlemen who wrote to him on the subject but for his sickness. The letter to him and the substance of his reply may yet appear.

The correction is duly made in the Georgian, in which Governor Troup announces his intention to vote for Pierce and King, and advises the State Rights party to do the same. At the same time he authorizes them to use his name as long as they please, for organizing the State Rights party and maintaining and conserating its principles.

[Communication.] EXTRAORDINARY CORRESPONDENCE!

OPTOTNAL CORPESPONDENCE

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Fellow Countrymen—To the Truth Teller, I promised in my last communication, to give personal opinion of the candidates now before the American people for their suffrage on the 22d of November next, namely General Scott, and General Pierce. General Scott I have known over twenty years; he is a haughty, overbearing, and weak man. I served a short time in the field with him in 1837, in the war with the Creeks, in the Alabama. He was recalled from that campaign by order of General Jackson, in consequence of his procrastination, and the command given to that sterling and efficient officer, General Jackson, in consequence of his procrastination, and the command given to that sterling and efficient officer, General Jackson, if the state of the command given to that sterling and efficient officer, General Jackson, in consequence of his procrastination, and the command; for it was notorious that General Scott, from his overbearing temper, and others, were entrusted with the command; for it was notorious that General Scott, from his overbearing temper, was constantly quarrelling with his brother officers, as his conduct afterwards proved in the city of Mexico.

My countrymen, the Whigs just at this time would make you believe, that General Scott was the best friend Irishmen ever had in this country, and they have sent him through the large States on the electioneering tour, there to blarney you—no I say to insult you by his sycophancy.

Mark what he says, in Cleaveland, Ohio, when addressing a Whig meeting, a few days ago. One of our countrymen present said something, the general heard him, and at the try of his voice, exclaimed, "How I love that rich Irish brogue," yes countrymen, compare Scott in Cleaveland, and General Fcott in this city. Read the following orders taken from the record to one of his recruiting officers:—"Fou are instructed not to ential foreigners; for the battainon, of St. Putrick has taught us that foreigners cannot be truste."

Shame on the werecu who would pen such an ins

ous republic, enlisted (not in General Scott's regular army but in an army of Prosbyterians, to be instructed under the Breckinridges and others of the same school), to sinn'er the priests and churches of our holy religion. No my countrymen, put no faith in the statements made by such men, they like General Scott have no love for you as Irishmen, except on the eve of an election. The Whigs employ such men as W E Robinson, Thomas Fitman, and all such, who would sell their country for office or its spoils, and send them all over the country for coffice or its spoils, and send them all over the country to coax and blarney you for your votes. These men know in their souls the Whiga are your enemies, but their thirst for noteriety and the spoils of office, lead them to do such dirty work. One of the above named mercenaries told me he knew the Whigs to be unfriendly to Irishmen, but "he was poor and wanted office." Do you believe such creatures? I hope and trust not.

In my next I will give you, although it must be brief, as I fear I trespass too much on the columns of the Truth Teller, my reasons why I think the Democrats are the true friends of Irishmen in this country, and my-reasons why I think if Scott should not be elected, we should have the revival of the native party of 1844, under this administration. Sincerely, your fellow countryman.

JAMES MAGUIRE.

BUENA VISTA, WASHINGTON COUNTY, D. C., Cotober 28, 1852.

Mr. Eptron: Without making any special co the above communication from "JAMES MAGUIRE," of Washington city, which I find in the New York Trutheller, of the 23d instant, it being the second of his series, I ask the favor of its insertion in your columns, in order to let the community at large know how happy the capital of the republic is in possessing a writer of such profound eru-dition and patriotic feeling, as the author of the Truth Teller's " original correspondence." I will add, also, that this modest and unpretending patriot after having acted the part of a noiseless politician for twenty years past in your midst—having filled several governm ffices, and who would no doubt fill many others, under any administration, whether Whig or Democratic, could be get them—and having, also, flourished for a time in the uniform of a lieutenant of the United States marine corps—not, as c erroneously alleges, under General Scott, but under Lieu tenant Sloan, during the Florida war, where his gallant bear ing as a soldier is so well known to everybody, has at last capped the climax of his republican ardor by becoming a citizen of the United States, which he accomplished ON THE SECOND MONDAY IN JUNE, 1850!!! If any are so inous as to discredit what I affirm, they have only consult the records in the office of the Clerk of Washington county, on Louisiana avenue. Lest the careless or superficial reader should pass over the richest points in this very original correspondence. I have taken the liberty to under core them. Should General Pierce be elected President of the United States, he would verify the complaint of monarchists, that republics are ungrateful, if he should not provide this gentleman with comfortable quarters in one of the public departments, for calling his presidential opponent, the choice or recherche name of  "WRETCH!" General Scott a WRETCH"!!! and his assailant, the veritable JAMES MAgume, so celebrated for his military exploits during the Flo-

But a truce to irony. Now, sir, some of this man's ante cedents are the following: He commenced life in this country either as a shoeblack or barkeeper at a Philadelphia ho tel, from whence he migrated, via Washington, to Gosport, Virginia, where he acted the part of sutler at the marine barracks, until he had to quit it for his unworthy conduct there. Subsequently, he managed to impose upon the friends of General Jackson and Mr. Van Buren, who obtainwas sent to Saint Augustine, under the command of Lieut. Sloan. While there he was challenged fo fight a duel by a brother officer, for his habitual insolence. But instead of doing this, he begged Sloan to place him under arrest, to prevent it, which the latter refused to do. So, as a dernier resort, to escape the effects of powder and lead, he resigned his commission and came home. This is the soldier that now assails General Scott as a man wanting inilitary talents, and discretion, and denounces as a wretch!!

Why he has assailed me I know not, unless it is because don't notice him any more than I do the dogs in the streets, not having exchanged a word with him for five years; but his inherent and natural vileness of conduct has brought him into contact occasionally with gentlemen, to their indescribable annoyance, till he has received more kicks and cuffs than usua ly fall to the lot of the most degraded scamp on the town.

Since the presidential campaign commenced, it is well known to every citizen of Washington city and county, that I have not attended a political meeting, nor have I deemed it necessary to take an active part in promoting the election of General Scott, except that in the Buffalo Celt, of last July, I published my reasons for refusing to support General Piercs. These were predicated upon the fact that he was the nomince of a State, and of a party in that State, which held in force, against Catholic citizens, one of the worst features of the British penal laws; and, as an Irish Catholic adopted citizen, who has felt pangs inflicted upon my countrymen, I should be recreant to every principle of right reason were I to sanction in New Hempshire what the American people and humanity condemn in Great Britain. Mr Pierce, it is true, may not be responsible for the acts of his State; but when his State steps forward, in her sovereign capacity, to ask the suffrages of those in her and his behalfwhom she degrades within her own bounds, it is a question with me whether I will respond to her insolent overture. But it is not in a religious point of view that I look upon the subject, but that of a direct attack upon the principles of the constitution, and the natural and inalienable rights of every American citizen; for if the Catholic can be made the victim of State policy to-day, for being a Catholic, so can the Presbyterian, the Methodist, and the Episcopalian tomorrow. I therefore consider the election of Gen. Pierce, under the operation of his State's action-no matter how pure the man himself may be-as the triumph of New Hampshire and her persecuting religious test act.

Although I have been a passive spectator of the contest up to this time, Licutenant (!) James Magnire, my very respectable assailant, has been electioneering throughout Montgomery and Frederick counties, Maryland, and endeavoring to exercise an influence among those who do not know him against Gen. Scott's claims to the Presidency. THOMAS FITNAM.
